

Part 1 In the first column below, list three potential concepts you might want to write about; in the second write a sentence or two about why you would want to write about the concept:

Concept	Why might you want to write about this concept?
1. _____	_____
2. _____	_____
3. _____	_____

Part 2 For each of the three concepts, find an Oxford Reference Premier or a Credo Reference article that would help you learn about it. Skim the articles and list three subtopics for each concept.

Article title	Subtopics
1. _____	A. _____ B. _____ C. _____
2. _____	A. _____ B. _____ C. _____
3. _____	A. _____ B. _____ C. _____

Emporia State University Libraries and Archives

Part 3 From part 2, pick the concept that interests you most or seems strongest to you and develop a concept map for it.

The form is a concept map template. On the left, there is a starburst shape labeled "Concept". To its right are three vertically stacked ovals, each labeled "Subtopics". To the right of these ovals are nine rounded rectangular boxes, each labeled "Details". The boxes are arranged in three groups of three, with a horizontal line separating each group. The top group is connected to the top oval, the middle group to the middle oval, and the bottom group to the bottom oval.

Part 4 Write down three to five synonyms or alternative search terms you could use in searching for more information on your concept. You can get these from the article itself or the related content/subjects.